

The Olio.

LABOR.
Ho! ye who at the anvil toil,
And strike the sounding blow,
Where, from the burning iron's breast,
The sparks fly to and fro!
While answering to the hammer's ring,
And fire's intense glow—
Oh! while ye feel 'tis hard to toil
And sweat the long day through,
Remember, it is harder still
To have no work to do.

Ho! ye who till the stubborn soil,
Whose hard hand guides the plough,
Who bend beneath the summer sun,
With burning cheek and brow—
Ye deem the curse still clings to earth
From olden time till now;
But while ye feel 'tis hard to toil,
And labor all day through,
Remember, it is harder still
To have no work to do.

Ho! ye who plough the sea's blue field—
Who ride the restless wave—
Beneath whose gallant vessel's keel
There lies a yawning grave;
Around whose bark the wintry winds,
Like fends of fury rave—
Oh! while ye feel 'tis hard to toil,
Remember, it is harder still
To have no work to do.

Ho! ye upon whose fevered cheeks
The hectic glow is bright,
Whose mental toil wears out the day,
And half the weary night—
Who labor for the souls of men,
Champions of truth and right;
Although you feel your toil is hard,
Even with this glorious view,
Remember, it is harder still
To have no work to do.

Ho! all who labor—all who strive—
Ye wield a lofty power;
Do with your might—do with your strength—
Fill every golden hour!
The glorious privilege to do,
Is man's most noble dower;
Oh! to your birthright and yourselves,
To your own souls be true!
A weary, wretched life is theirs,
Who have no work to do.

FIRST PIANO IN NORTHERN ILLINOIS.

During the summer following the termination of the Black Hawk war—being among the first of the down-east emigrants to the country then barely evacuated by the redmen—the forest—Dr. A., of Baltimore, removed to what has since become a small town near the Illinois river, by the name of P—.

The doctor's family was composed of three young ladies and his wife, all of whom were performers on the piano, and one of them the possessor of the instrument in question.

As is usually the case in all newly settled places when a 'new comer' makes his appearance, the neighbors (that were to be) had collected together for the purpose of seeing the doctor's 'plunder' unpacked and making the acquaintance of its possessor.

Dr. A.'s 'household' was stowed away in seven large wagons—having been first packed into pine boxes, on which were painted, in large black letters, the contents, address, &c.

One wagon after another was unloaded without much sensation on the part of the little crowd of lookers-on, except an occasional exclamation similar to the following, from those who had never 'seen the like before':

'Glass! This side up with care! Why, I thought this ere feller was a doctor—What on yearth is he going to do with that box full of winders?'

'This side up with care!' exclaimed one. 'He's got his paragonic and il-of-spike fixins in that. Won't he fizzle them augur fellows down the river?'

In the last wagon there was but one large box, and on it were painted the words 'Piano Forte—Keep dry and handle carefully.'

It required the assistance of all the bystanders to unload this box, and the curiosity excited in the crowd upon reading the foregoing words, and hearing the musical sounds emitted as it struck the ground, can only be gathered by giving a few of the expressions that dropped from the spectators.

'Pine fort!' said a tall, yellow-haired, fever-and-ague-looking youth; 'wonder if he's afear'd of the Injuns? He can't scare them with a pine fort.'

'Kee-p d-r-y' was spelled by a large, raw-boned man, who was evidently a liberal patron of 'old bald face,' and who broke off at the letter 'y' with, 'get out you temperance karacters—you need n't come round here with tracts!'

He was interrupted at this point by a stout-built personage, who cried out—
'He's got his skeletons in thar, and he's afear'd to gin them liquor, for they'd break out if he does! Poor fellers!—they must suffer powerfully.'

'Handle carefully,' said a man in a red hunting shirt, and the size of whose fist, as he doubled it up, was twice that of an ordinary man. 'Thar's some live critter in that. Don't you hear him groan?' This was said as the box struck the ground, and the concussion caused a vibration of the strings.

No sooner had all hands let go of the box, than Dr. A. was besieged by his neighbors, all of whom were determined to know what were its contents, and what were the meaning of the words 'piano forte.' On his telling them that it was a musical instrument, some reckoned that it would take a taral sight of wind to blow it; others, that it 'would take a lot of men to make it go!'

&c. The doctor explained its operations as well as he could, but still his description was anything but satisfactory, and he could only get rid of his inquisitive neighbors by promising a sight at an early day.

Three days—days that seemed like weeks to the persons above mentioned—elapsed before the premises of Dr. A. were arranged for the reception of visitors, and various and curious were the surmises among the settlers during this time. Dr. A. and his 'plunder' were the only topics of conversation for many miles around.

The doctor's house had but one lower room, but this was one of double the ordinary size, and the carpets were all too small to cover the entire floor; hence a strip of bare floor appeared at each side of the room. Opposite to and facing the door was placed the 'pine fort.'

All was ready for the admission of visitors, and Miss E. was to act as the first performer. The doctor had but to open the door, and half a score of men were ready to enter. Miss E. took her seat, and at the first sounding of the instrument, the whole party present rushed in. Some went directly up to the 'critter,' as it had been called on account of its having four legs—some, more shy, remained close to the door, where, if necessary, they could more easily make their escape; while others, who had never seen a carpet, were observed walking round on the strip of bare floor, lest by treading on the 'handsome kaliker,' they might spoil it!

The first tune seemed to put the whole company in ecstasies. The raw-boned man, who was so much opposed to temperance tracts, pulled out a flask of whiskey, and insisted that the 'gal,' as he called Miss E., should drink. Another of the company laid down a dime, and wanted 'that's worth' more of the 'forty pains,' as the name of the instrument had come to him after traveling through some five or six pronunciations. Another, with a broad grin on his face, declaring that he 'would give his claim and all the truck on it, if his darter could have such a cupboard!' The 'pine fort' man suggested that if that sort of music had been in the Black Hawk war, 'that would have skered the Injuns like all holler!'

It is needless to say that it was late at night before Miss E. and the other ladies of the house could satisfy their delighted hearers that they were all 'tired out.' The whole country for twenty miles around rung with the praise of Dr. A.'s 'consarn' and the 'musikal kubburd!' The doctor immediately had any quantity of patients—all of whom, however, would come in person for advice, or for a few 'ague pills,' but none of whom would leave without hearing the 'forty pains.'

With an easy way and a good-natured disposition, Dr. A. soon formed an extensive acquaintance, obtained a good practice, and became a popular man. He was elevated to some of the most responsible offices in the gift of the people—one of which he held at the time of his death. So much for the charms of a piano forte.

MIKE WALSH.—A correspondent of the Rochester American, writing from Albany, gives the following characteristic 'effort' of the Subterranean representative, who, it seems, was entrusted with the duty of asking of the Assembly leave of absence for Mr. Titus, (another city member), who was suddenly called home by an 'interesting family event.' Though it does not impress one with a very lofty idea of legislative dignity, it is nevertheless one of those little episodes that, now and then occurring, serve to relieve the monotony of ordinary debate, and as such we give it.

Mike, arising in his seat, with great solemnity of tone and face said—
'Mr. Speaker: I have to announce to the House that last evening, while at his boarding house, my colleague, Mr. Titus, had the fortune to receive a most important communication by telegraph. While reading the note his countenance betrayed strong emotions of joy. No May morning, resplendent with the sun's horizontal beams, ever shone more brightly than the face of my friend. The bystanders desired to know what had caused such excitement in his mind. Utterance was denied him. He thrust the note into his pocket and went into a back room. Thither his wonderful and solicitous associates followed him. One of his colleagues, Mr. Rodman, is a scientific man, and gave it as his opinion that poor Mr. Titus had been too freely taking that exhilarating and wonderful liquid, chloroform. But as soon as the state of his feelings would permit him to produce the note from his breeches pocket, the mystery was explained. We read and were satisfied. The telegraph brought intelligence that Mrs. Titus had presented her husband with an heir; and not an heir only, but a boy; and not a boy only, but a fine boy! The exultation of Napoleon when Maria Louisa gave him a son to inherit his empire and his renown, was tame compared with that of Mr. Titus. As soon as he could command his faculties he called for champagne and cigars. Official dignity was thrown aside. Our friend was no longer Mr. Titus the legislator, but Mr. Titus the father of a boy. Taking kindly leave of his friends, and tendering his heartfelt thanks to all who could be supposed to have contributed in any way to so auspicious an event, he departed in last night's cars to see his happy spouse and infant heir. I ask leave of absence for him of ten days.'

It is needless to say that leave was granted amid roars of laughter.—[New York Express.

ETHERAL EXPERIMENT.—Punch is credibly informed that the use of ether is superseding that of alcohol, for the production of 'agreeable excitement.' The ladies, who used to patronize the gin-shop, now drop in at the chemist's, to call for their 'ounce of ether and a suction pipe,' instead of the classical 'quartern and three ouths.'

From Thomas Lint, a Student at Bartholomew's. Dear Punch,—Ether parties are all the go amongst our fellows. Jack Bones (our clinical assistant, you know) has invented an inhaling apparatus. We sit around the table and suck it, like so many nabobs with their hookahs. It's glorious, as you will see from this analysis of the effects of a quarter of an hour's jolly good suck.

First ten minutes.—All overish, with a tendency to pitch into opposite neighbor, succeeded by a lively sense of my own importance.

Second five minutes.—A severe flood of tears followed (I am told) by a surprising imitation of Herr Von Joel, and a general challenge to the company.

Third five minutes.—Fancied myself past the hall and college; with a triumphant demonstration of the nervous system, illustrated by experiments. (I knocked down Flaccid, the new man.)

Fourth ten minutes.—Felt out of debt, and as if in large practice.

Fifth ten minutes.—Gradually came to, without the least headache.

SILENT THUNDER.—An old woman in the country told us the other day, that she could not see the use of having thunder with lightning. 'It ain't no use,' said she, 'it only makes a great noise and frightens folks.'—
'Madam,' we asked, 'how would silent thunder suit you?'

'Luddy sez, yes! that's just what I should like!' she exclaimed, without giving herself time to think upon the nature of the element.

Obidiah Higgins had a falling-out with his wife Susan, and left her. Being advised to apologise, he refused, saying that he was not going to sue for peace.

$500 REWARD!

JAMES F. LEWIS absconded from Honolulu, on Friday, Dec. 18, 1847, taking with him about $8,000 in gold and silver, and one Bill of Exchange, dated Honolulu, Dec. 17, 1847, drawn by Henry Champlin, Master of ship Henry Tukey, on Burr & Smith, of Warren, R. I. for between 800 and 900 dollars. Said exchange was drawn in a set of 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th.

Said LEWIS is a man about 35 years of age, dark swarthy complexion, black eyes and hair, roman nose, stout, well built, and about 6 feet tall. He is an American by birth, and formerly resided at Amsterdam, about 17 miles west of Schenectady, N. Y., on the Erie Canal. He wore a blue frock coat, and both sides when he left. He left in the ship HENRY TUKEY, Capt. Champlin, of Warren, R. I., and is supposed to be connected with a Mr. William H. Hardick, who went passenger in the same vessel.

All persons are cautioned against negotiating said Bill of Exchange; also a receipt given by Capt. Champlin and made payable to the aforesaid W. H. Hardick, dated Honolulu, 16th Dec., 1847, for $300.

The subscriber will pay the above reward for the apprehension and conviction of the said James F. Lewis and the recovery of the property so absconded with. JOSEPH BOOTH. Honolulu, Dec. 25, 1847.

Correspondence between H. H. M.'s Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and Her Majesty's Majesty's Consul General, on the subject of Richard Charlton's Claim to Land. 1845. Price 75 cents.

Investigation pursued at the Palace, by command of the King and Premier, in the fall of 1845, in vindication of the course pursued by His Majesty's relative to R. Charlton's alleged claim to the land Puhahalo, in Honolulu, 115 pages with a map. 1845. Price $1.

Supplement to the Investigation at the Palace, containing the particulars of the Inquiry before the King, and Rear Admiral Sir George F. Seymour, upon the authenticity of Mr. Charlton's Will, and the complaints of William Miller, Esq. H. B. and the case of James Ruddle—85 pages—with an Index for reference—1846. Price 75 cents.

Second Supplement to the Investigation at the Palace by command of the King and Premier of the Hawaiian Islands, containing the evidence, given under oath, by Mr. David M. M., before the King and Premier, at Lahaina, in March, 1847, upon the subject of Mr. Charlton's claim to land; the whole evidence having been taken in the presence of, and carefully interpreted by the Rev. Dwight Baldwin, to which is added sundry letters relating to that investigation, the supremacy of Kaahumanu, Karanimo, and all the other chiefs, and the principles adopted by the Board of Land Commissioners, appointed by the King, for the settlement of titles to land.—For sale at this office. 1847. Price 50 cents.

Appendix to the Second Supplement to the Investigation at the Palace, in 1845, on the subject of Mr. Charlton's Land Claim; being a reply to what was published in the Sandwich Islands News, Nos. 26 and 27, of 24th February and 3d March, 1847, in the name of Robert Chesley and John, Esquire, on behalf of those against whom he institutes charges of perjury and subornation of perjury—referred to in the Hawaiian Herald as unfair, garbled and deceptive and proving clearly that Kaahumanu was always the superior of Kaahimoku—that neither Kaahimoku nor Boki were regents of these islands—that the functions of Regent belonged to the King, and that neither Kaahimoku nor Boki, nor any other chief, ever held powers by their own authority to grant away any lands whatsoever, far less to grant to third parties the lands belonging to other chiefs, and more especially those of the guardian of the kingdom and the supreme directing chief, Kaahumanu. For sale at this office. Price 50 cents.

In Admiralty.—Foreclosure of the Hypothecation on the British brig Euphonia, Captain John S. Nightingale. Price 25 cents.

Correspondence between H. H. M.'s Minister of Foreign Relations and the Commissioner of the United States, in the case of John Wiley. 1845. Price 75 cents.
